THEME

It's June 17th and we're sitting in my room at Longwood College racking our brains. What are we going to use as the theme for this year's book? Mrs. Sims is discussing people's walks; Missy is sitting at a desk, trying to look productive; Megan is leafing through Seventeen and calling out ad phrases; Sandy is on the bottom bunk swinging her feet; Amy's pacing and I'm on the top bunk fooling with my camera.

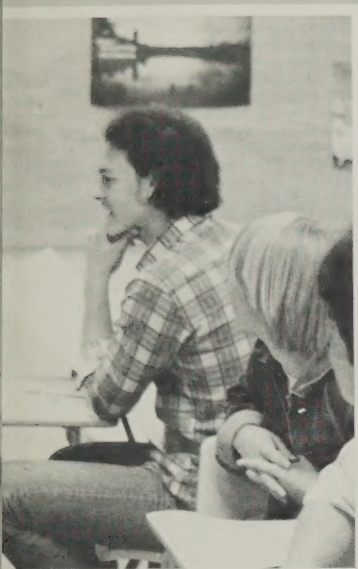

"What a Feeling" came up but someone, namely me, said "too flashy."

"Let's Go Crazy" (Amy's idea) but that's so overused. It went on and on and on, but finally, and I have no idea how anyone thought of it, much less who thought of it, but finally, someone suggested "Our Gang". There were no objections so bingo. We've found it. Now, to base the whole book on those two words . . .

Dancing is a favorite among this gang. Enjoying the first soc-hop of the year is Megan Heaslip, Leigh Anne Cook, Alicia Ozyjowski, Mark Hedrick, Skip Nash and Keith Eagle.

STUDENT LIFE

Lazing around in front during lunch is a favorite pastime of these guys (Rick Coakley, Alex Fisher, Kevin Sawyer, Paul Kasemirongkol, Timmy Coffey and Danny Lawhorn).

Is the life of the student. It's activities out of school (parties, skiing, working, cruising) as well as those directly related to the classroom (sports, clubs, homework, lunchtime). Trying to report everyone's activities is virtually impossible, but here are some of the major pastimes the '86 school year brought:

- Hanging around the front lawn, and later the back, during lunch.

- Cruising downtown on a Friday or Saturday night.

- Working at Burger King, Hardee's or Micky-D's.

- Cutting up confetti for Boy's Basketball and Girl's Volleyball games.

- Mechelle's barn "parties."

- TRB's and Eli's.

- The G-93 Sweetheart Dance at Expo.

- MGA

- Running, for fitness and the Cross Country State Championship.

- Renting VCR's and movies.

- "Testing" Mr. Landis.

- Projects, projects and more projects.

- Concerts such as Loverboy, Brian Adams, Hank Jr., Thompson Twins, Ricky Skaggs, Alabama and Charlie Daniels.

- Dancing with the Stingerettes.

Leigh Anne Cook poses in front of the neons in the window of a shop in Chinatown while in New York City.

Field shows are not the only thing the Band prepares for. Greta Mann marches with other county band students in the "Happy Birthday USA" parade.

Flag girl Donna Sullivan worked really hard this summer to get in all-county band.

It's Not Just a Job . . .

. . . IT'S AN ADVENTURE

Ah, there it was summer, a time to stay up 'til the wee hours of the morning and not getting up 'til your mother calls you down for lunch. Since all good things must come to an end, some of our Hornets decided to get an early start on the year.

All the fall sports such as football, girls' basketball, and cross country didn't just come back in perfect form. There was a lot of early morning practices that made the students as polished and perfected as they could be. There were other seminars, not to mention all the camps and extra classes that were taken by the cheerleaders, yearbook staff, and band personnel.

But you may ask, "Didn't anybody ever work for a living?" But of course. Maybe you noticed some of our gang working at your favorite local fast food place. There were also a few familiar faces on the Rescue Squad, not to mention all the diligent workers at grocery stores, sporting goods stores, and banks. Other people dedicated their time by doing volunteer work at the Waynesboro Community Hospital.

While some of the Wilson students spent the summer in leisure, it only took a little bit of searching to find others out working in the world.

While practicing this summer beside Ken May, David Cook waves.

While on duty, David Price walks around Expo.

The defensive linemen hold tackling dummies for the offensive linemen while Mr. Landes watches.

Joey Pugh stands in the middle of the field looking for someone to tackle.

ON OUR OWN TIME

What did you do over the summer? That's a question very often asked at the beginning of each school year. Well, we don't know what everybody did over this past summer, but we did manage to catch a few students on their own time.

Some people went to the park in Staunton for the fourth of July celebration, while others were across the country in Europe, exploring and learning about many famous buildings. One of the students who went to Europe even found himself a girlfriend! (It's too bad she weighed a ton).

But even if you just lounged around over the entire summer, which some people did, that's fine because you were ON YOUR OWN TIME!

Skip Nash surprised Debbie Wright with this photo while on a tour in France.

Annette Ross didn't wilt in the fourth of July sun in Staunton.

On the fairgrounds at Expoland in Fishersville, Bernie Elmore and Anita Sheets prepare to get a late-night snack.

Instead of playing the many games at the fourth of July celebration in Staunton, Dwayne Rivenback takes time to run one of them.

The Statler Brothers appear annually in the fourth of July parade in Staunton.

Over the summer, Skip Nash found a girlfriend on his trip to Europe.

At the Staunton July 4th celebration, Jerry Caldwell was only one of many Wilson students who endured the heat.

Gloria Hutchens and Terry Rex-rode try to prevent their helium balloons from floating away in Gypsy Hill Park in Staunton.

EXPENSIVE HABIT

"Have you looked at the cars in the school parking lot lately?"

"Well, no — not really."

"Go out there and check out the new looks and the new rods!"

Kevin Christie has done an excellent job restoring his '67 Rally Sport Camaro.

Sirena Ringgold is showing off her expensive new Ford EXP.

Well, we finally got Tressa Fitzgerald's '70 GTO, Jeff Tinsley's '67 Firebird, and Scott Kelly's '68 Firebird together.

They definitely have a very EXPENSIVE HABIT of building nice looking fast rods.

Pat Wertman shows how an EXPENSIVE HABIT pays off on his '70 Chevrolet Truck.

Mark Smiley is showing Chuck Clements how high his truck sits.

David Desper and Charlie Davis are letting us see how bad Charlie's car is.

Missy Hewitt's parents provided her with a new '85 Z28 Camaro, and it wasn't even her birthday.

Tony and Brian Shifflett let us know that "A Country Boy Can Survive!"

LIGHTS OUT

"Hey Mom, why are you getting me up so early? You're kidding — it couldn't possibly be the first day of school!"

Everything seemed different on the first day of school. There were new faces, new teachers, a new principal, — even the paint looked new. Confusion accompanied students as a power outage made it harder, if not impossible, to find the right classes. After all, how easy was it to know when to change classes in a pitch-black classroom without the basic benefits of lights or bells?

After the lights came back and the electric clocks were corrected, students were able to get back to the grind of the day. Some discovered that they would have to sit through the same class again, as they had misread their schedule and arrived one period early for class. Others didn't make such mistakes, but were tardy to fifth period after being caught in the post-lunch "rush-hour" traffic jam.

Finally, after the end of sixth period, students were able to unjam their lockers, throw some books in, take some out, and head for home. This presented another problem, namely finding the right bus in the line that stretched the whole length of the parking lot.

The halls become crowded between classes as the day gets under way.

Lunch is a busy place on the first day of school.

Kristen Bradley, Kim Meek, Tammy Thompson, Lucy Ramsey, Megan Heslip and Michelle Smith meet in the library before school.

Talking about the events of the weekend are Gloria Hutchens, Bruce Houle, David Ledbetter, Howard Miller, Mike Dillon, Niklas Thoren, and Jerry Caldwell.

BREAKIN'

Lunch time is usually considered a time of rest and relaxation. But for the half-hour allowed for lunch, many things were going on. For the underclassmen, a wait in the lunch line usually shortened the time in half. The seniors didn't mind the lines, of course, because they could waltz right up to the front of the senior butt line.

After receiving the glorious lunch advertised on the morning announcements, the fun began. Here originated a form of musical chairs. Chairs were a major issue, with students either swapping or switching these precious commodities, or being urged to push them in. Many times, when things got out of hand, a little talk from Mr. Landes would bring back order. If the lunch scene didn't suit, then students chose to go outside and either socialize or take a break from school. Any way you looked at it, lunchtime had something for everyone.

After a long wait, students arrive at the front of the lunch line.

Alex Fisher looks up from eating his lunch to check out the scenery.

Mechelle Zirk takes a break from lunch to gaze into Keith Eagle's eyes.

Before the rules changed, students would relax on the front lawn.

While others eat, some use their time to socialize.

"You did what?"

When the weather is pleasant, students spend the lunch period outside.

The Homecoming game is "lifted off" with a skyfull of balloons.

Kristen Bradley shows what she thinks of the first day of school.

WE'VE GOT IT!

Spirit is a firecracker! It is a cheer, a song, a twirling baton, a blast of the trumpet. It is a fast dance, a high-five, a crash of cymbals. Spirit is the roar of the crowd in the last seconds of the game. Spirit is a touchdown, a basket, a spike, and breaking the ribbon at the end of the race. It is the slam of lockers, a burst of laughter, a twist and a turn. Spirit is winning even when you lose.

Enthusiastic sophomores strut their stuff.

Confetti! Many trash bags of it are smuggled into the games by Hornet fans.

The football team receives the support of the students.

Joey Pugh wins the wet T-shirt contest.

Senior spirit shines through — winning pep rallies all year was no problem.

Ms. Wade enjoys the reception given by the band boosters to the elementary school students.

Mrs. Lang supports the band by serving refreshments.

These two ladies were familiar faces at Wilson events.

WHAT WOULD WE DO WITHOUT "THEM"

Boosters and parents — early on a crisp Sunday morning when the Hornets Nest should have been calm, movements could be found. Who was it? What was it? If we had looked closely we could have found our loyal posters and parents working hard to finish our new sports complex press box and bathrooms. These special people had as much enthusiasm about the Hornet's Nest as the students did as evident by the support given to each individual sport.

Band boosters — must not be forgotten either. These people are the people behind the scene of WMHS's Band. They were at all the competition giving moral support as well as giving financial support. They sell pizzas and other various items to raise money for new uniforms and instruments.

What would we do without them?

Mr. Bower and Mr. Worley take a break from cheering the team.

Two Wilson patrons survey the job of finishing the pressbox.

The Hulls are finding that the half-time entertainment is quite relaxing.

FASHIONABLY INFLUENCED

"Where did you get that skirt?"

"I dug it out of the trunk in the attic, Mom."

"Are you going to wear it to school?"

"Yeah, Mom, everyone's wearing them at school. Where have you been?"

"But isn't it a bit large?"

"That's the way it's supposed to be!"

The look of the year seemed, at times, to be big, bulky, even sloppy. Bright color shaker knit sweaters and pants. Bright colors like crimson and royal blue with deep yellow. Vest sweaters were everywhere — even on the guys. Penny loafers were back and the old white Nike and Converse shoes were also in style. Girls wore both "flats" and "pumps" or tapestry shoes worn with lacey socks.

Summer weather brought wild cotton prints on shirts and jams (knee-length shorts for men and women). White pants were in — to go with all those vibrant colors.

Recreation time was spent not in video games but by watching VCR movies. Popular were horror flicks, like Nightmare on Elm Street. Of course, we can't forget about the parties that occupied a lot of some peoples' time.

Donna Carter's pride and joy are her red high-top tennis shoes.

Wearing bright colors and lively prints is Deanna Washington's way of expressing her fashion flair.

Hands off Leanne Cahoon

Darl McDorman's look was not the standard at Wilson but certainly reflected a large portion of society.

Skirt lengths echoed the 50's, loafers and designed hose the 60's, and cut out shoes were the 80's addition.

DEDICATION AND CELEBRATION

The Homecoming celebration began with spirit week. On Monday, there was denim day when people wore denim jeans and jackets. For the "punkies", Tuesday was sunglasses and neon day; however, on Wednesday boots and bandanas made an open appearance. Thursday was the traditional green and gold day, which was followed by beach day on Friday.

On game night at 8:00 Friday, there was a spectacular fireworks display as our new athletic complex was dedicated. Then began the football game. Wilson led the Luray Bulldogs by a comfortable margin until the final quarter. With no time left on the clock Wilson and Luray fans watched a 14 yard Luray field goal attempt go left. In this close Skyline District contest, the Hornets stung the bulldogs with a 16-14 victory.

At half-time the homecoming court was announced. The class representatives were: eighth graders Laura Rodeheaver and Darren Pultz; freshmen Stacy Chandler and Todd Harris; sophomores Scarlett Kiser and Sherman Snyder; juniors Susie Wright and Charlie Davis; and seniors Anita Sheets and Bernie Elmore, and Donna Campbell and Paul Kassemongkol. Gloria Hutchens and Bruce Houle were chosen homecoming queen and king.

Finally, on Saturday evening the semi-formal homecoming dance was sponsored by the SCA. The DJ was from a Richmond radio station. Approximately 150 attended. The theme of the dance was "Cherish" and colors were pink and silver. Balloons bearing the theme color were taken down as souvenirs of the entire homecoming events.

Trying to gain yardage is Mike Snead as Mark Brown and Howard Miller block.

The Singing Sergeants are ready to sing the National Anthem to start the game.

Bruce Houle and Gloria Hutchens are announced as homecoming king and queen.

The dedication ceremonies started with a "bang" — a sky full of bright, noisy fireworks.

Former principal Al Costa participates in the pre-game celebration.

The Raiders of the Lost Ark theme plays as J.W. Seay portrays Indiana Jones.

J.W. Seay and Sharon Huffman dance a slow dance in our cafeteria.

GETTING DOWN

There were several dances throughout the year, including the Welcome Back disco, Homecoming, a sock hop, and a dance after a home football game.

The Welcome Back disco, sponsored by the S.C.A., was held in the cafeteria. Music was provided by a local DJ while yearbooks were distributed. Many students spent much time during this dance signing their friend's yearbooks.

At Homecoming, also held in the cafeteria, balloons and streamers were hung everywhere. Music was provided by Jimmy Lambert. The Homecoming King and Queen, Bruce Houle and Gloria Hutchens, were not present at the dance because of previously scheduled business, but they had been crowned at the game the night before.

Waiting for a slow song are Bernie Elmore, Anita Sheets, Sherri Elmore, and Alex Fisher.

There was yet another dance, this time sponsored by the teachers to raise money for a new refrigerator to go in the teachers' lounge. Although the profits were not enough to buy a "new" refrigerator, the students had fun and the teachers got a "used" model so everyone profited.

The yearbook staff sponsored a sock hop in January to raise money to help pay for the expense of publishing these annuals. This dance was held in the gym with music provided by a junior, Robbie Drumheller.

All in all, this was a big year for dances at Wilson. None of them "flopped" so everyone who used a dance as a money-making project had a good experience. Even more, all students who danced enjoyed a more active year too!

Lucy Ramsey and friend, Leigh Ann Cook, dance with Tracey Coffey and Barry Meek.

Debbie Flory signs one of her friend's yearbooks at the Welcome Back Disco.

Sharing a special dance at Homecoming are Kevin Christie and Mechelle Zirk.

Keith Ramsey enjoys
the night life at Expo.

ACTIVITIES

During this past year everybody at WMHS had some type of extracurricular activity. The activities included swimming, jogging, working in burger joints, girl and boy watching, working on cars, and of course partying! As you can see the number of activities was as broad and varying as the people at Wilson.

The activities brought about many things including money, enjoyment, getting yourself in shape, and the thrill of competition.

Finally, Wilson had many standouts in the extra-curricular activities. These included Kamie Kuester going to the YMCA swimming nationals, and another unnamed person working at and getting fired from all four burger joints in Waynesboro.

So in whatever the people participated, they achieved something during their extra time and their activities.

WMHS swim team: Francis King, Coach Rhonda Brewer, Diana Snively, Kamie Kuester, and Karla Drumheller.

Karla Drumheller competes in swim competition, such as the breaststroke, on weekends.

A favorite activity of the students of WMHS is riding three-wheelers.

Wendy Wiseman enjoys the live-stock show at Expo.

PARTY ALL THE TIME

If you were like most students, a lot of your weekend time was spent at a party. It could have been a school sponsored party, like the infamous Spanish Club Party at Halloween or a large social gathering that was heard about in McDonald's or another common hangout; or it could have been an impromptu gathering at Silverbrook Farm for some "dobbing".

No matter what the occasion, Wilson students always found something to celebrate.

Brian Shifflett has to smile when he thinks of all the parties he will attend.

"This is the life!" thinks David Wills as he points to Bill Nash who has just stumped his toe during the Spanish pool party.

"This dobbin' party was on a Sunday afternoon in mid-winter.

Skip Nash decides to try out the pool but Chris Dalton stays behind to soak up the sun.

Making a sneak attack, Barry Meek knocks the ball out of Bill Lang's hands as Jeff McKinney wonders where everyone is!

Greta Mann and David Gutschow relax at the Debate Party.

Joann Vandevander, Mike Campbell, and Rosemarie Whitesell pose for this at Rose's party.

Tony Shifflett and Sherri Henderson are often found discussing their weekend plans.

Kevin Christie and Michelle Zirk enjoy the sunshine after eating lunch and before heading into the afternoon classes.

DATING IS

Taking Her to a Movie

Have you ever thought about what a date consisted of? A guy drove half-way across Augusta County to his date's house. Then he walked up to the door, rang the bell, and stood waiting for ten minutes before someone answered the door. Finally, when someone greeted him, it was his date's father whom he was trying to avoid meeting. The father looked at him with an "evil eye" and invited him into the house to meet his date's mother. Her mother walked around him several times, observing carefully to make sure that he was gentleman enough for his daughter.

At last, his date came down the stairs and said she was ready to go. He and his date walked out to the car with her parents watching to see if he opened the car door for her. Then they got in the car and went to a movie, which was the most boring movie ever made. Afterwards, she decided that she wanted something to eat. Therefore he took her to get pizza and spent another ten dollars for her to stare at the food.

After he took her home and got the third degree from her parents again, he went home with nothing to remember the night by, except an empty wallet and a disappointed heart.

Karen Tutwiler, Chris Garber, Shannon Hiner, and Matt Garber wait for "their song".

If the success of this dance is measured by a crowded dance floor, then it was a big hit.

J.W. Seay and Liz Long enjoy a night of dancing at the yearbook staff's dance.

Going to a Movie with Him

Finally, he asked her out. After two weeks of hoping, praying, and a little persuasion from his friends, the guy of her dreams would show her just what dating was all about.

After rushing home she noticed that she only had three and a half hours to do a major overhaul. While fixing her hair, putting on make-up, and deciding what to wear, she tried to talk her mother into changing her curfew to 12 o'clock. So there she was, her hair was fixed — but not too perfectly; her favorite clothes were on — but not too dressy.

At last, he had arrived. She hurried downstairs after her dad answered the door and tried to rush him out the door before her little sister showed him her new baton routine. While on the way to the theater she tried to break the silence by talking about anything that required more than a simple nod of his head. Then she was at the most embarrassing movie of her life. While she was sitting there turning beet-red, her date's eyes were about to flip out of his head trying to catch all of the anatomy flashing across the screen. After the movie she really needed something to drink. While sitting across from him in the booth she noticed that conversation was twice as hard as in the car.

Well, now the date was over, and she wondered if this was what dreams were made of.

WILSON WINTERLAND

Christmas was a time of celebration and joy. At Wilson, Christmas '85 was a busy one. The weather was good and every scheduled event was held on time. Staff and students were rushing about, giving and receiving presents. In fact, teachers received gift from Secret Pals — a new experience at Wilson and a real boost to the teachers' morale.

The halls and rooms were decorated with the seasons. Symbols of the time were everywhere, from a Santa on Mrs. Holley's wall to the Christmas tree in the annual room.

The school play, Rest Assured, was performed on Dec. 13. It was a timely addition to the holidays, having a modern version of the old "scrooge" theme. Other performances boosted our enthusiasm for the season. The band marched in both the Staunton and Waynesboro Christmas parade and held a Christmas Concert in the Augusta County Library. The Singing Sergeants performed at the district nursing home and sang in three concerts in area churches. Many of us were truly busy all season.

The eighth grade chorus sings songs of Christmas cheer at "the most Wonderful Time of the Year".

Megan Heaslip anxiously waits for Skip Nash to open his Christmas gift from her.

"... And the band played on. ..." — Christmas concert, Augusta County Library.

Jerry Caldwell recites his "lines" one more time before dress rehearsal.

Donna Carter examines the necklace that Tressa Fitzgerald gave to her at Christmas.

During the school play, Bruce Houle and Susan Agee ask Lucy Ramsey for permission to be married.

The one scene J.W. Seay and Scotty Bartley like to practice is the fight scene.

Luigi Lanconi (Scotty Bartley) and Martha Lanconi (Missy Gering) meet again after the years of her death separated them.

During the making of the play, a friendship was formed between Mike Dillon and Lucy Ramsey.

Mildred (Amanda Brown) is told to answer the door again.

STUDENTS AT PLAY

Under the direction of Mrs. Fielding and Mrs. Beam, the cast of "Rest Assured" loved to dramatize. All of the lines of the characters had to be memorized as follows: J.W. Seay as Mr. Morlock, Lucy Ramsey as Mrs. Morlock, Susan Agee as Mary Morlock, and Tracy Batts as Jessica Morlock. The Morlocks' maid Mildred was played by Amanda Brown. There was also Scotty Bartley as Luigi Lanconi, with Missy Gering as his wife Martha, and Bruce Houle as Joe Lanconi. Laura Thompson was Miss Akers and Jerry Caldwell played George Plew. Mike Dillon was Dr. Brown. The other members were Darl McDorman as Lucifer, Robyn Miller as Mrs. Schmaltz, Travis Spradlin as Mr. Black, Jeff Wilkerson as Jake, and Angela Rodgers as Mrs. Fink.

Robyn Miller, as Mrs. Schmaltz, demonstrates the unique personality of a vamp.

Interesting costuming for this play is modeled by Jeff Wilkerson as Jake and Darl McDorman as Lucifer.

After working so hard for so long, a major depression hits when it's over. Darl McDorman and Susan Agee reflect those feelings.

Bruce Houle blows a kiss before he goes on stage to play Joe Lanconi.

Jessica Morlock (Tracy Batts) aims the final blow to bash George Plew (Jerry Caldwell) in the head.

LOV'N EVERY MINUTE

With prom just around the corner and the junior bank account running pretty low, the junior class put on the J.V. show to raise some bucks and put a few smiles on some faces. It all started with the script committee searching through their minds for any idea that was worth writing down.

When all of the scripts were turned in, our junior sponsors (Mrs. Fielding, Mrs. Kiser, and Mrs. Via) with the student director (Alicia Ozyjowski) sifted through the skits to see what was appropriate viewing. After all the writing, sifting, and throwing away, the late night practices began. There was much confusion: people looking for scripts, people losing scripts, and people wondering whether or not they were supposed to have scripts. But after helpful hints from the sponsors, the show was ready to go on by the end of dress rehearsal.

There were rapping and laughing, screaming and even a little "go-going". Juniors showed today's fashions of area high schools, and a projection of our teachers in the future. The whole time the M.C.'s kept the show rolling with some humor, often ad-libbed, of their own.

After the show, the stage make-up was replaced in boxes, the props put away, and a bunch of weary juniors packed their stuff to go home. It was sad, but there were a lot of happy people when the class found out that 1200 dollars was made for our junior class and the prom.

What? A senior in the J.V. show? Senior Kathy Hughes assists on the guitar her sister Tammy Hughes pickin' the banjo.

During the fashion show segment, Bobby Arehart and Sandra Runyon epitomize sophisticated Wilson students.

One of the Singing Sergeants. Darlene Merica, sings the song "El Shadi".

Advertising "Trepiditmic" cold medicine are Linda Jo Baber, Jeff Wilkerson, and Amy Boyer.

Talented temporary Stingerette dancers in the junior class are Mike Gaulding, Diana Snively, Chris Dalton, and Kris Jones.

Putting on the show is no easy job as Andrea Patton makes up Leigh Anne Cook to look older for "2001: A Wilson Odyssey".

In the "Superbowl Shuffle" Kris Jones sings as Willie Gault as other juniors play the Chicago Bears.

Prop committee members Timmy Sutton and Elaine Smith hang theme banners before the show.

WAS MY FACE RED!

Everyone has had embarrassing moments which ranged from falling in the halls to dumping lunch trays someplace other than the trash can. At times what was said was more important than what was done.

When asked, most people would tell you their most embarrassing moment. There were others who were willing to share their friends' faux pas and fallacies. In case you missed these the first time or had just forgotten, "Our Gang" was kind enough to revive some of the classics.

Paula Johnson — Having to ask Mr. Devono for toilet paper.

Dennis Wilfong — Bill Heaslip put a rubber glove over his head and blew it up.

Tammy Hughes — Getting caught between a couple holding hands and being pulled backwards down the hall.

Tressa Fitzgerald — I pulled Tina Fitzgerald's pants down during volleyball pictures in front of the basketball team.

Lena Henderson — I ran into a fire extinguisher hanging on the wall.

Sandy Runyon — When Mrs. Sims screamed during annual staff and scared a girl walking down the hall.

Lucy Ramsey — Missy Gering went on stage at the J.V. Show with her zipper down.

Scott Linton — My drumstool broke and I fell head over heels during a concert.

Joey Pugh — I refuse to answer on the grounds that I might incriminate myself.

Robyn Miller — Talking about someone who was right behind me at that time.

James Fitzgerald — Harry McGlaughlin, Pat Barnhart, Scott S. Ramsey, and I watched Scotty Bartley shake his milk after opening it.

Alan Foster — Bill Payne kicked my feet out from under me in the hall.

Mark Glover — Mr. Moffett cut my underwear for missing a deer.

Scott K. Ramsey — James Fitzgerald was sitting on the rail at lunch and was pushed over; he was left hanging upside-down for several seconds.

Anne Holloway — I was running for the bus on a rainy day when my shoe got stuck in the mud and I almost ran off without it.

Lynda Jo Baber — I was mooned by a football player at the homecoming game.

Sharon Huffman — In P.E., I was running for third base and ended up face down hugging the base.

"There's nothing more embarrassing than cheering for the wrong team!", Mrs. Baker tells Mrs. Via and Miss Sondrol.

"I'm as surprised as you are!"

exclaims our Dutch foreign exchange student Hetty Doerr while showing off her rather unusual baby, which is a hard boiled egg.

Eating ice cream becomes a new experience to Scott S. Ramsey when he is served by Melanie Kiser, a future member of Our Gang, while Elaine Smith laughs because she doesn't have to do that sort of thing.

Mike Gauldin dons a tutu for a dance routine with Shannon Hiner and Diana Snively during the J.V. Show, while Jeff Wilkerson tries to dance.

SUCCESS THROUGH PERSISTENCE

This year, as in the past, the academic awards banquet and spring sports banquet were held to honor those who had worked hard all year in school and sports. Indeed, these students deserved all the recognition they got — and the congratulations!

In addition to the many awards presented, the SCA officers of 1985-86 were recognized. These were: President Matt Garber, 1st Vice-President Shannon Hiner, 2nd Vice-President Ricky Clark, Secretary Greta Mann, and Treasurer Kristen Bradley. The newly elected SCA officers for 1986-87 were installed. They were: President Greta Mann, 1st Vice-President Ronald Porter, 2nd Vice-President Ricky Clark, Secretary Shannon Miller, and Treasurer.

Of course, it was impossible to congratulate everyone for their accomplishments. But from the looks of this extensive report on the awards presented to Wilson students, members of Our Gang were people who strove to achieve success through perseverance.

“ACADEMICAL” PURSUIT

The Academic Challenge Team and President's Team were two groups of individuals who participated in “college bowl” type activities, including the WAYB “Academic Challenge” and the WVPT “Pop Quiz”. Team members were chosen based upon general knowledge, speed of response, and educational ability. Also, team members were chosen by their ability to work and to devote time to research beyond their schoolwork. Throughout the school year, and occasionally in the summer, the team met to discuss and report on topics they had researched. Members could act as the teacher — teaching others what they have discovered.

Games such as Trivial Pursuit,

Super Quiz, Trivia Fever (a computerized game), and current events gave mental exercise and challenge to the participants. Not only did the teams study but also they visited art galleries, play productions, artistic exhibitions, and other educationally enriching hands-on experiences.

The success of the two teams was directly proportional to the enormous amount of preparation. The Pop Quiz team soundly defeated arch rival — Charlottesville and went on in the spring competition to the finals. The final contest against Riverheads was a decisive victory making Wilson the Pop Quiz Champions!

Team captain Mark Houff appears confident before an important match.

THE RIGHT STUFF

"Did you know that dead fish don't bite?" That profound statement was one of the many convincing arguments brought up in a debate meet. Between arguments of affirmative and negative, the team members stated their viewpoints so successfully that they went all the way to State competition, with some members taking home trophies.

State competition for single A high schools took place at UVA on April 25 and 26. Affirmative team members, undefeated throughout the season, were Mark Houff and David Gutschow. Placing second were Karla Drumheller and Jeff McKinney, who argued for the switch-side. In addition, other switch-side members in the event, debating either way depending upon the flip of a coin, were Jay Jones and Billy Lang, with a third place victory. Debaters Barry Meek and Robyn Miller placed third for the negative team.

Outstanding speaker awards went to Karla Drumheller, Mark Houff, Billy Lang, Jeff McKinney, and Robyn Miller. Also helping out at the competition were team coach Mrs. Beam and timekeeper Sandra Runyon.

The 1985-86 debate team is: Row 1: Robyn Miller. Row 2: Billy Lang, Karla Drumheller, and Barry Meek. Row 3: Jay Jones, Jeff McKinney, David Gutschow, and Mark Houff.

Waiting for a debate at TA are Sandra Runyon, Jeff McKinney, Travis Spradlin, Karla Drumheller, and Mrs. Beam.

Putting together information before state competition are David Gutschow, Billy Lang, Mark Houff, and Sandra Runyon.

THAT'S WHAT

Friends Are For!!

All the seniors filed into line, preparing to take their walk through the arches held by the juniors. Guys walked through one tunnel of arches while the girls strolled through the second. As the two united, each couple joined arms and stood before the audience to be recognized as one of the '86 seniors.

After recognizing well over a hundred of the nearly one hundred and forty seniors, Mr. Leonard turned the ceremony over to Mr. Woolfrey who presented the class with a speech that recalled some "outstanding" personalities before the turning of the rings. Next, vice-president Howard Miller spoke, followed by the naming of the senior superlatives, as chosen by their classmates. Finally the senior Singing Sergeants performed three songs and president Megan Heaslip ended the night with a farewell speech.

Senior class president Megan Heaslip gives a touching final speech.

The audience of parents and seniors could not help noticing the blue ribbons on the seniors' wrists in memory of Shelby Varner. Here, ribbons are worn by Jeff Lakotos and Rose Marie Whitsell.

Now is the time for the class to turn its rings over so the world can read the Wilson name.

Taking their seats after walking on stage are Mike Engleman and Joanne Vandevander.

Watching the ceremony intently are Michelle Fertig and Jeff Tinsley.

The senior Singing Sergeants who perform at class night are: Kathy Hughes, Kim Meek, Donna

Sullivan, Denise Meek, Missy Ger-ing, and Wendy Wiseman.

SWOON TO THE TUNE

Alright, there you were at Prom. You walked in the door; to the left was the refreshment table, and to the right and all around were tables. But you didn't notice. All you saw was straight ahead and through the tables — the dance floor.

To many people, dancing was the main part of the evening. Why sit down when you don't have to? There was a great band there, Street Life, who kept the beat all night long and sang some of the popular top 40 and classic songs.

Even the best of bands had to take breaks, but that didn't stop you. As soon as the band took its break, tunes started playing throughout the sound system. There you were out on the floor, dancing to non-stop music. Even some of you, who were hesitant about going out and showing your rhythm went out on the slow songs.

The Prom was soon over and only a handful of people were there dancing to the last song. Of course, Prom's ending was just the beginning — as many headed to one of the many parties which went on all night long.

One of the chaperones at Prom, Mrs. Kindig-Vess, dances with her date who just so happens to be her husband.

Kamie Kuester and Steve Wine, and Amy Boyers and her date dance to one of the fast songs played by Street Life. In the background Kim Lowry's attention is captured on the other side of the dance floor.

Audra Stevens and her date sit this dance out, while Todd McCray and his date walks away from the dance floor.

Carolyn Smith does some fancy footwork with her date.

Raymond Gochenour convinces his date and Pam Price to rest their weary feet.

Brian Cash and Tabitha Jo son are one of the long-standing couples.

Serena Ringgold, her date, and Cindy McDorman and Vingate Evans take time out to have a little talk. Donna Sullivan also takes time out for her date.

"Belly up to the bar." Jeannie Fisher gets some drinks from FHA members who served refreshments.

1986 Prom Queen and King, Wendy Wiseman and Kevin Christie, were chosen for their contributions to the school.

THE SOCIAL EVENT

This year's Prom, as with every other year, was one of the biggest events at Wilson. Why else would girls go out and spend "mega-bucks" for a dress while guys rent matching bow ties and cummerbunds. But, there was much more to Prom than the preparations — clothing-wise. There was lots of hard work and creative thinking . . .

The juniors put in a lot of hard work and after school meeting time to get this Prom together. With the help of the advisors all the decorations were either rented or bought with only a few days to spare. Early Saturday morning, more juniors came to braid ivy, color water, or set up flowers for the pictures. Then it was time to go and get all dressed up.

Another part of Prom was going out to dinner. Many people went to Aberdine Barn, White Star Mill, Belle Grae Inn, McCormick's or Buckhorn Inn. Some brave souls even went all the way to Charlottesville. Then, it was time for the Prom.

At the Prom there was a very romantic setting with floating candles, weaved ivy, and the lights turned low. When you entered Ingleside you could do many things; for instance get your portrait taken, pick up the Prom glass souvenirs, look through your memory book, or "hit" the food table. There was also dancing to a lively band. Later on, during the Prom, the king and queen were chosen — Kevin Christie and Wendy Wiseman.

Soon Prom was over and people were slowly drifting out of Ingleside Inn to go to one of the parties that were going on. One thing for sure, when the candles went out on our Prom, the memories lingered . . .

THE END OF AN ERA

It was finally here. The day you had been waiting for since your very first day of school. In your mind you imagined how it would feel on that very last day of school. The thought of never having to do the homework, listening to the teachers, and trying to make it to class on time was just too good to be true! But finally, the day was here. The one you had imagined to be so great. This was your graduation day. How wonderful it was to think you wouldn't ever have to go to school again unless you were planning on continuing your education at a college or university. This was going to be the absolute happiest day of your life, right? Well, it was also one of the saddest.

Well, how can that be, with no more lockers or riding the bus. When the thoughts and the memories finally hit you, it was hard, maybe impossible, to hold back the tears! As you were walking under the arches on class night, or up the aisle to get your diploma, you were thinking about the friends that have been with you everyday during school.

At last the day arrived and you saw the sadness. Once all the diplomas were handed out, the graduation ceremony was finished. The graduates were mingling in the library while the tears began to flow. That is, the tears that hadn't already started, because this was the time when the class knew it was really over; one of the best parts of their lives was really over.

Brian McNeery is assisted to his seat by next year's senior class president, usher Bill Nash.

The closing speech is delivered by Valedictorian James Fitzgerald.

Alan Foster receives his diploma. It was his father who gave the benedictions for the ceremony.

Reverend Foster and Meagan Heaslip sit in the front facing graduates because they each were speakers during the ceremony.

Howard Miller, we found your hat. It was stuck on the ceiling.

Mr. Landes hands Scott S. Ramsey his diploma. This year the real thing was given out in a pretty green cover.

Greg Cash and Kevin Christie await their turn to shake hands with Mr. Landes while an anxious guest surveys the photo situation.

These fellows were so pleased to be finished that they were ready early for the ceremony and had time to pose for the many cameramen even in the library before they lined up.

PEOPLE

In this section, you will see pages and pages of "mugs". These were the preps, the "jocks", and the "brains". These were your friends; maybe they were your enemies. Some of these people you didn't even know existed, and others you have known forever. Without all these "kids", Wilson Memorial High school would just be a big brick building. But with them, we were able to place the Hornets on the map, academically and athletically. Each smiling face represents the spirit of youth and Wilson Memorial. These people are "Our Gang."

LET'S GO ALL THE WAY!

What a crew! The class of '86 really made the most of their last year at Wilson. From the first day of school, running around exclaiming, "I can't believe we're finally seniors!" to that rainy graduation night saying, "I can't believe it's over!", we made every moment count.

SHELBY JEAN VARNER

NO, WE WON'T

Shelby listed her favorite saying on her senior questionnaire as "You'll get over it." Well, some things we never get over. Losing Shelby only six weeks before graduation is one of those things.

Shelby was an unusually happy person. In spite of holding two jobs during her senior year and having very little time for herself, Shelby always had a smile for everyone. To demonstrate her remarkable personality, below are her other answers to the questionnaire:

What will you miss about Wilson? Spending time with my friends at lunch.

What was the funniest thing you saw happen at Wilson? The last day of school my junior year, Mr. C_____ split the seat out of his pants, "wrestling" with Todd Hurst. If you could vacation anywhere — all expenses paid — where would you go and why? The Bahamas for the sun and fun.

If you could leave one thing to someone ... who and what? My attitude toward school to my sister Sonya.

What advice would you give to underclassmen? Take each day as it comes. Have a good attitude. Good Luck ...

ONE STEP CLOSER

Instead of counting up the days to becoming juniors, we were counting down the days to graduation.

As we looked back, we could remember all those times when our parents had to take us to the movies or to a sporting event which we wanted to see. They also took us to parties where games like "spin the bottle" were popular. And let's not forget feeling lost in high school and just standing around at pep rallies while everyone else was yelling at the top of their lungs.

As juniors, all of those times seemed childish and immature for we had many other tasks and events to undergo. We had Singing Sergeants, band, forensics, and many other activities to participate in. Sports and clubs took up much of our time also, but the main interests in the junior class were preparing for college, preparing for PSAT's and SAT's, or taking up a trade at Valley Tech.

Even though activities as a junior were very time-consuming, we still found time to have fun and we made the year one to be remembered.

Curfews

Curfew—(kûr'fyoo) n. 1. a pain for teenagers
2. limitations set by parents or other authority figures 3. a form of cruel and unusual punishment usually directed at youth.

Asked at what time was their curfew, the students responded in varying ways: Ginger Goodwin — 10:30; Elizabeth Long — 11:30; Pam Price — 1:00.

Some girls said their curfews entirely depended on their parents' opinion of their date.

These were the consequences of breaking a curfew: Lori Comer got a lecture; Laura Foster said, "It depends on which parent handled it."; Elizabeth Long's parents would have taken her car away.

Many said they were "grounded". Others said that the times weren't really enforced. Most students said they had some influence on parents' definition of curfews; even so, they didn't like them.

Ginger Goodwin, of course, was one of the many who wished her curfew was later. Some with earlier curfews became envious of others who were able to stay out much later.

Some said they didn't mind curfews because they were reasonable. After all, where can you go at midnight in Waynesboro?

SECOND TO NONE

There it was — your Junior year — and you thought, “only one more year and I’ll be number one in this school.” But it was a long hard year with all sorts of activities and fund raisers to keep you busy. Who would have thought it would have taken so much money to put on a dance? Granted, the dance was Prom, but why does a live band cost so much? One of the major fund raisers was the J.V. Show, which kept many Juniors busy for up to a month.

There was more to a Junior’s life than raising money though. This was also the first year some were able to drive to school and on dates, and there were plenty of school functions to attend.

So after all the fund raising, committees, acting debuts, and extra-curricular activities, the Juniors noticed that the year wasn’t so bad after all. In fact they said, “Juniors were second to none.”

Wishes

Different people wished for different things. Some wished for fancy cars. There were some who wanted to meet the person of their dreams. Here are some of the things that "Our Gang" wished for.

Cindy Hall — to meet Wham!

Shannon Bunch — to be a ninja

Mike Henson — 1985 white Fiero

Robert Templeton — to live through high school

Alan Foster — to win the State championship in baseball

Robbie Washington — my dream car: a BMW

Diana Snively — to live in New York City and own Bloomingdale's

Timmy Sutton — to make all A's in college

Elaine Smith — to own a DeLorean

Jeff Helmick — $10 million

Tammy Hughes — I can't tell!

Bill Nash — that I knew what it felt like to be a commoner and that I wasn't so popular
Jean Kanney — for all eighth graders to stop being so short

Scott Wakefield — for the football team to win the State championship

Carolyn Smith — to own a 300 ZX

Kris Jones — to be a millionaire by age 19

Tressa Fitzgerald — to marry Mike McCrary and live happily ever after

David Morris — to play major league baseball

Frances King — World Peace

Terri Campbell — to meet Rob Lowe

Steve McGuffin — to play for the Baltimore Orioles

Ed Gauldin — to have my truck running

Mike Engleman — to wear my hat in school

Scott K. Ramsey — to graduate

Brian McNeary — to pass
Mike Snead — to marry Susan Adams after high school

Benny Higgs — for all girls to get their screws on straight

Ricky Clark — to finish all my school years in one day

Pam Lilly — to have money without working for it

Scott Linton — to have enough money not to worry about wishes anymore

Lucy Ramsey — to be successful and happy

Shamus Harris — to have money

Sam Shields — no school

Cindy Clark — to have all the wishes I want

Drew Wade — $1 million

Sandra Runyon's wish is now a reality.

WHAT "TO BE OR NOT TO BE"?

That was the question that every WMHS sophomore has had to answer. This year it was your turn to decide if Valley Vo-Tech was the right choice. In the fall you were taken on a tour of Vo-Tech school so that you could see and better understand it. You had a chance to learn about courses like cosmetology, nursing, horticulture, mechanics, auto body repair, computer science, office work, carpentry, plumbing, or food services. One important result of the tour was that it made you think of your future. The final question was to go or not to go.

THE BIG DEAL

Being an officer of the freshman class required enthusiasm and a willingness to work. This year, the elected officers had the responsibility of raising funds for the largest class at Wilson. They were responsible for organizing the magazine fund drive which raised $300 for the ninth grade account. The officers worked throughout the year, accepting the responsibility of leading the freshman class.

HOW DID YOU SPELL "FUN"?

Who said that American teenagers have no courage? Would you zoom down a steep hill on three wheels? Have you ever challenged your mind with a computer game which you knew you couldn't win? Did you ever risk your health by playing sports against larger opponents? The freshmen participated in these activities in the name of fun.

THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT

Different people had different favorite T.V. shows, but a few managed to stand out from the crowd. "Miami Vice, the dramatic series with the dynamic duo of Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas, featured streetwise, Ferrari-driving Sonny Crockett and Ricardo Tubbs going about the duties of vice squad officers.

A more family-oriented comedy that was popular and earned critical praise was "The Cosby Show". Students followed the antics of the Huxtable family through realistic, modern situations of the 1980's.

The "perfect romantic comedy", "Moonlighting", was brought back by popular demand for a better season.

The 1985-86 television season had such a variety of shows that even students as busy as Wilson's looking for comedy, romance, action, or drama could find a show suitable to his or her tastes.

EYE OPENING

The eighth graders who arrived at Wilson had a truly eye-opening experience. It was a real transition coming from schools where they had been the oldest and biggest. The eighth graders felt lost in the crowd when they were trampled after lunch by the herd of upperclassmen. One thing was for sure; the eighth graders had to keep their eyes open!

Looking closely, we can see that this locker belongs to a girl — namely, Tammy Thompson.

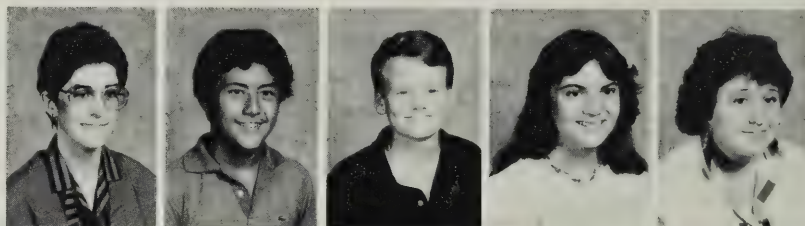

Lockers were those little metal boxes which you love to hate. You cram them, slam them, and they always seem not to open, especially when you are in a hurry. Of course, lockers were never proportional to your proportions. If you were 4'2" you always got a top locker; if you were 6'3" you always had to stoop into your bottom locker.

But of course, lockers are important — how else could you explain to your teachers why you were tardy or why no books went home last night? As always, your locker was jammed.

One of the few neat lockers is inhabited by Mechelle Zirk's materials.

FRIEND OR FOE?

Although we (the students) often referred to the teachers by many unconventional and uncomplimentary terms, the duties of the teachers included much more than just making life miserable for us. They filled our minds with all of the knowledge that prepared us for college and the "real world".

Teachers corrected papers, averaged grades, and typed, typed, and typed some more. They were also responsible for other jobs such as chaperoning dances, sponsoring clubs, and even coaching our athletic teams. A teacher was also a friend, when a friend was needed.

THE WILSON ANNEX

Debbie Fitzgerald teaches two students how to bake a cake, part of their basic instruction.

A part of Wilson that many had not heard of was the Wilson Annex. The Annex was not housed in the high school but had a separate building in the middle of the complex.

The Annex provided for many of the high school-aged special education students in the county.

The students were taught a variety of things. These included basic housekeeping skills and personal hygiene, while some learned job skills like horticulture and laundry service. The students formed a small company that made and sold Christmas bows. The Wilson Annex staff and facility gave students a chance to learn practical and necessary skills.

Each morning the students have an hour to build puzzles and play other coordination games.

Don Ross, Yvonne Taylor, and Mike Harris learn about the worst part of cooking — cleanup.

These students of a variety of ages separate into three groups when classes begin.

The Annex building has show-ers, a kitchen, and bedroom facilities for students to learn skills.

ACADEMICS

The reason we are in school is, as Mr. Landis would say, "for instruction." This means we go to 6 classes of various subjects, take tons of notes, quizzes, tests and exams. Some classes you can breeze through, while in others you struggle; some are fun and some are real pains.

New teachers brought new methods and new ideas. Some ideas went over nicely. In Mrs. Harmon's Chemistry class, students made, packaged and advertised a product like "Passionate Lip Glaze", "Diamond Auto Wax", "Missy's Lemon Lye Soap", and "Ant Be-Gone."

New classes also added a little variety. Mr. Woolfrey's Semester Economics course gave students a taste of the business world. They invested $100,000.00 of fake money in the stock market; they formed a student company in which they actually sold a real product and made real money.

Although students didn't always react favorably to new ideas, the true test of value was in whether they were "instructed."

Holly Hoerr and Krista Strickland say they love their program in the model of their computer class.

Susan Garfield uses the eraser and at her point to punch in the numbers for her chemistry test.

During quiet moments, he finds time to draw.

He is a member of the Art Club and has won several awards for his work. He is also a member of the Chess Club and has won several awards for his chess playing.

Mrs. Wade points out yet another way to the algebra problem.

FIGURES

Have you heard about some of the figures in the math and business classes? Whether it is accounting or geometry, some of the students said that they are not at all nice to look at.

While the computer students flowcharted and typed in what seemed to be a million programs the accounting students were busy trying to get their totals to equal.

Mrs. Scott explains her method of doing the math problems.

Wilson's tax expert is Bob Wenger.

Mandy Brown shows her expertise on the Apple computer during computer class.

Calculating figures in accounting class is Barbara Botkin.

Mrs. Holley shuffles through her papers to decide which pop quiz to give.

GOOD TO GO!

Science classes involved more than mixing potions and building bridges and learning about the earth's geographic structure. While students did these activities, they learned about such things as predicting the weather, dissecting "critters", forming chemical reactions, and studying physical properties of the universe.

These classes included earth science, biology, chemistry, and physics, respectively. Students taking the courses gained important knowledge that helped prepare them for college or a job in the world of ever-expanding technology. Such a start prepared students to live in today's world. The experience made them "good to go", according to a favorite phrase of Mrs. Harmon, who taught chemistry and physics.

Students in Mr. Wade's eighth grade science class do their class-work.

Anxious to see the results of their physics experiment, Skip Nash, Keith Eagle, and Jay Jones watch as Susie Wright drops pennies into their aluminum foil boat.

A VARIETY OF STUDIES

Social studies were required courses which are titled World Geography, World History, Sociology, Virginia and U.S. Government, and Virginia and U.S. History.

Each class involved its own studies. In Sociology students were required to take care of egg-babies.

Government classes had to memorize presidents, do daily current events, and along with World Geography, had to do projects. Some had mock trials and speeches or "presentations." No matter what the class involved everyone was required to take several of them to graduate.

Missy Gering and Sandra Glass act out a drama skit.

Mark Fitzgerald accepts medal for his forensics presentation.

Lucy Ramsey and Mandy Brown are engrossed in a two-way dialogue.

EXPRESS THYSELF!

Expressing themselves was the main objective of forensics, drama, and English participants. In addition to writing, English called for such expression as vocal exercises, while drama required the use of voice with body language in acting.

Forensics competition consisted of speaking, spelling, reading prose and poetry, and participating in other contests of mind and mouth. Overall, the team did well as several members advanced to regional competition at Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester.

The drama students were responsible for putting on the school play production, Rest Assured. Years of studying English helped the thespians in their verbal expression.

Confronting each other in a skit are Bruce Houle and Darl McDorman.

Treacy Black and Tracey Batts converse on stage.

PLAYING AT WORK

Work got done. Your yearbook is evidence of that, but we sure spent a lot of time pretending we were working. Looking busy can be so hard. Sometimes we had no photos to work with and other times we were overwhelmed with headlines.

But somehow we managed to get everything done and that's NO PRETENDING.

At Christmas, the annual staff exchanges gifts. Scott Ramsey displays his new pocket knife.

From the look of the blackboard, it is obvious that spelling is important among the yearbook staff.

Bill Nash expresses his view of Donna Carter's brownies.

Kristina Bryant receives a mug of peppermint as a gift.

WORKING AT PLAY

A lot of work was done by the drama club also. In addition to all the regular classwork they also had to stage the school play. Problems with props, practice, and schedules were among the many headaches the members suffered. To sum it up, no one ever said learning was easy.

The members of the drama club practiced many long hours in preparation for the play.

Do you suppose Robyn Miller wishes for a bracelet like Darl McDorman's?

ROMANCE LANGUAGES?

Miss Karen Davis joined the Foreign language department this year as a French teacher. She taught two French I classes in the afternoon. Also here only half a day, Miss Barringer had all three Latin levels of classes in the afternoon.

Mr. Hollen had upper level French classes and three lower level Spanish classes while Mrs. Kiser had mostly upper level Spanish classes.

Some of the activities each language class participated in were national contests. The scores were above the national average every time! In addition to speeches and other presentations, classes also wrote and performed commercials in their respective second languages.

French classes went on a field trip to Roanoke to see Cyrano de Bergerac. Latin students went to Charlottesville to compete in a "Classics" contest. Spanish students went to Richmond to see the Ballet Folklórico.

Cooking was reserved for once each month or on special occasions. That made the occasions more special.

Mrs. Kiser gets enthused over her work.

Miss Barringer tells the class about the Latin party at Greta Mann's house.

Kim Meek admires Hetty Doerr's gingerbread Trojan horse.

Agriculture student Andy Bower displays the trophy bass he caught.

Mr. John Flora directs the customers as to which fruit to take.

FARMERS IN THE SHOP

Welding, sharpening, cutting, fixing, and planting were skills that the agriculture students learned this year. Students practiced all of those skills while producing a product with value. Agriculture was a busy class with projects that were always being worked on by the classes.

The students worked in the agriculture shop located down in the shop building, using power machinery including band saws, drill presses, table saws, and planers. Of course, they also had to exercise their elbows by sanding and sawing with hand saws. Finally, when the students weren't working in the shop, they were out in the greenhouse. After learning the essentials of plant care such as fertilization and watering schedules, the plants were sold.

Helping a customer, Curtis Ashby picks out just the right plant.

WHAT'S COOKING?

Home economics encompasses so much more than just cooking and sewing. It strives to help students improve the quality of their lives, both now and in the future.

The courses offered this year were Teen Living, Life Management Skills I and II, and semester courses such as Food Management, Child Development, Clothing Management, and Marriage and Family.

Students enjoyed the many kinds of projects they did. They especially liked learning new crafts, like stenciling and basket weaving, as well as learning certain basic skills.

There were approximately 65 students enrolled in Teen Living, 35 in LMS I&II, and 25 in semester courses.

Although the Home Economics courses were traditionally taken by girls, there was one male who participated in Teen Living this year. "This is a shame, because the program has so much to offer guys, as well as girls!" commented Ms. Huffman, one of the teachers of the course. In fact, the school has decided to offer a course next year called Family Life Management Skills, designed for 11th and 12th graders and geared toward males.

Concentrating on piecing their projects together are Tammy Dunn and Valerie Herring.

Michelle Stott studies a new pattern.

Is Home Ec. fun? Sharon Harner and Tabitha Lunsford seem to know.

Leanne Cahoon and Gina Wilfong are nearly finished with their projects.

Tonya Michael and Julie Roadcap take time out to read while their project cooks.

Patrice Wood pauses — what to do next?

Julie Graham and Donetta Abshire work on their sewing projects.

VARIETY

"Variety" was the word that best described the skills taught in industrial arts classes. Woodworking, metal crafting, drafting, and mass communications were just course titles. The actual activities were even more diverse than the titles suggested.

Students from the manufacturing classes made items such as gun racks and toothbrush holders. They also worked with leather and made plastic castings. Communications students learned to take and develop pictures and also learned duplicating procedures. Finally, cutting boards, spice racks, and snack trays were just a few items made by the wood-working class.

Ed.

Physical Ed.

Drivers Ed.

Special Ed.

Some classes were specialized. Physical Education involved first aid such as CPR practices, as well as sports and conditioning or dancing. Driver's Education classroom instruction was taught by the same teachers, Mr. Geiman, Miss Harlow, Mr. Schuler, Mrs. Taylor, and Mr. Walski.

Of course the "behind the wheel" driver's education was taught by either Mr. Bowers or Mr. Duke, and they even took students as far as the testing facility in Fishersville or up the interstate.

Special Education classes of various types were housed here as well as at the Annex building. These classes, like physical education courses, were geared to suit the needs of the students. Some special education students needed specific kinds of help attainable through the Resource Teachers, Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Shirley Scott. These students went to regular classes with other students and only went to their resource teachers for certain courses. During the average day, however, Mrs. Jones taught several levels of math, language arts, and science; and Mrs. Scott taught several levels of social studies and language arts as well.

Other special education teachers, Miss Compton and Mrs. Washington, taught classes which did not change with every bell.

Miss Tammy Compton seemed to be threatening Calvin T. with a butcher knife but the threat was meant for our photographer.

TONS OF TALENT

Artistic

This year's art department was full of talent in both Mrs. Kindig-Vess' and Mrs. Williams' art classes. The art classes worked in numerous media including acrylic watercolors, plaster of paris (masks); they even etched designs on glass by creating artistic images on mirrored glass. In addition the classes painted the school mailbox as well as the new press box at the sports complex.

Musical

Singing Sergeants were not the only choral music group at Wilson. All day long Mr. Tate conducted vocal groups, mixed chorus, and eighth and ninth grade chorus. The ultimate honor was to audition for Sergeants and make it but with new diploma requirements enrollment dropped in spite of the interest level.

awn Dofflemeyer practices dancing to "The Rhythm of the Night".

Following the beat of the music is Missy Gering.

Using water from the coffee cup, Tina Fitzgerald cleans paint spills off her finished masterpiece.

CLUBS

The FTA, SCA, FFA, and the FHA are a few of the clubs that relate to classes and involve "extra" time to do special things for the school. Each allows students to place other students in leadership positions to work on projects. Also, clubs allow people to learn a little "extra" about the class from which they stem.

These clubs play important roles in student life. For example, the SCA is the student government and one of their main jobs is the preparation of Homecoming. The FFA sells fruit but teaches parliamentary procedure to its members.

Helping Mrs. Stoner with the audiovisuals is a responsibility of the FTA. Here, Scarlett Kiser and Tabitha Johnson take their turn in moving TV's.

The first of the year was a very successful one for the club. The first meeting was held on the 1st of the year and the club was very successful.

The second of the year was also a very successful
 one. The club was very successful and the first of the year was very successful.

JOIE DE VIVRE JOY OF LIFE — ART

Mrs. Kindig-Vess started the Art Club when she came to Wilson several years ago. The Art Club has been successful ever since that time. This year the Art Club has been very busy. Our Art Club painted the school mailbox again. They made masks, and sold small magnetic tiles. The Annual Art Club Contest was sponsored again by the Art Club, of course.

Shannon Bunch, Mike Alford, Brent Hensley, Daren Lotts, and Mike Dillon play their drums.

Handling rifles during a half-time show are Tina Small, Daphne Collier, and Sharon Houff.

The Wilson band is: Row 1: Drew Wade, Meloney Layman, Heather Weeks, Debbie Flory, Lynda Jo Baber, Sandra Earp, Tonia Michael, Christina Reich, and Sharon Huffman. Row 2: Brian Bowman, Billy Lang, Drew Mann, Sue Comer, Darrell Bowman, J.W. Seay, Keith Simmons, and David Jones. Row 3: Kent Wood, Bobby Wade, Angela Rodgers, David Cook, Ken May, Keith Alexander, Hank Henrickson, Paul Gum, and Mark Harris.

PIZZAZ!

Wilson's band was outstanding even though the number of band students decreased. The musicians received many "excellent" ratings in competitions such as the James Wood Invitational, the Charlottesville Cavalcade, and the VBODA Marching Band Festival. This year's band accomplished another great feat, earning a superior rating. This was the first superior rating ever awarded in the history of WMHS! In addition to competitions, the band participated in the local parades — both in Staunton and Waynesboro.

Besides Wilson's concert and marching bands, there was a jazz band. This band was a lot more casual and relaxed, with uniforms of jeans and T-shirts. They participated in the Tri-State Spring Jazz Festival at JMU and received an "excellent" rating. Making this accomplishment even more impressive, the jazz band had only twelve members, competing against larger bands.

The percussion section of the band includes: Row 1: Randy Steele, Brent Hensley, Terry Campbell, and Tracy Cale. Row 2: (standing) Keith Brown, Mike Dillon, Troy Fitzgerald, Daren Lotts, Mike Alford, and Shannon Bunch.

The flag and rifle squad includes: Row 1: Daphne Collier, Tina Small, Kathy Plunkett, and Charity Chandler. Row 2: Sandra Bruce, Monica Miller, Sarah Ainsley, Jane McCauley, Pam Huffman, Leslie Simmons, and Kim Lowry.

Paul Gum plays guitar with the band at a concert at the Augusta County Library.

ACCEPTING THE CHALLENGE

Accepting the challenge was an appropriate motto of the Future Farmers of America. The FFA participated in tree judging and livestock judging competition, plus the federation round-up.

The Future Farmers of America continued their annual citrus fruit sale which gave them the chance to compete against each other for the most fruit sold. Another tradition that was again upheld was the venison feast. Club members prepared the deer for teachers and staff, guests, and finally themselves.

This 8-point deer won the biggest buck contest for Bruce Perry.

S.A.D.D. BUT NOT SAD . . .

This year, the Future Homemakers of America, headed by Tracie Bower, spent most of the year concentrating on founding a chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). They convinced many students to sign contracts with their parents about not drinking and driving. They also made a television commercial for channel 3 in Harrisonburg.

In the fall they held a reception for parents and teachers in the home ec. living room. In May, they had a banquet and a fashion show for the FHA students and their parents, which they held in the cafeteria. Each of these events were for large numbers of people. The reception involved over 60 faculty guests. The banquet involved more than twice that many. No doubt the organizers learned plenty from those experiences.

Latonia Williams straightens up after working over the sewing machine.

Tracie Bower waits for the signal to begin her lines for the commercial while the rest wait.

Leanne Calhoun and Valerie Herring show there is some paper work in Home Ec., while Beverly Johnson looks on.

CULTURE CLUB

One of the more active clubs this year was the foreign language club. This year was especially active with parties, field trips and national contests. The sponsors of the club, Mrs. Kiser, Mr. Holland, Mrs. Barringer and Miss Davis spent a lot of their time on the road traveling to Roanoke and Richmond to show the members examples of how their respective language cultures are.

Miss Davis and David Browning seem to be having a foot race into MacDonalds on the French Club's way back from a cultural play in Roanoke.

During the French Club field trip, Cassandra Mickens and Carolyn Smith exit the bus to go into the theater.

MacDonald's is a Wilson Memorial hang-out, even in Roanoke.

During the Spanish Club party, at Missy Hewitt's house, Elaine Smith, Mrs. Kiser and Kaye Baber take time out to pose for a picture as Michelle Zirk inspects her goggles.

The French Club settle in for a trip to Roanoke.

Ms. Lewis-Volk, NHS sponsor, demonstrates how to decorate the induction candles to Mark Houff, Ricky Clark, and Shannon Hiner.

Folding crepe paper is only one of Bill Nash's many talents.

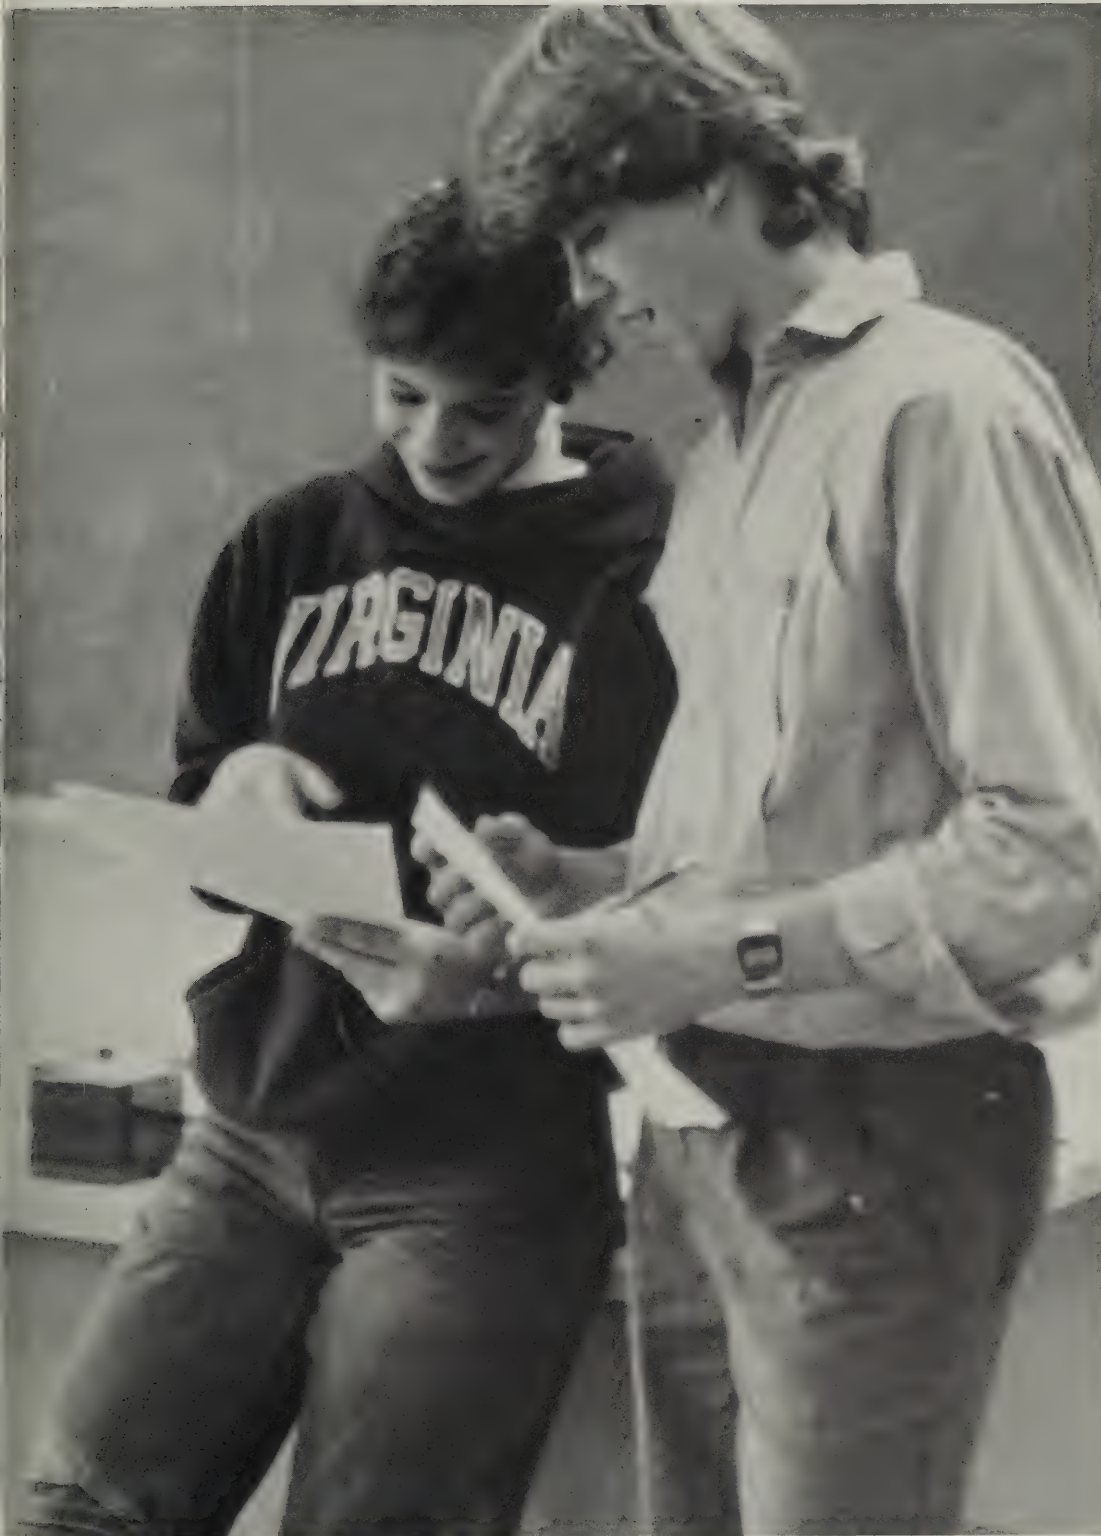

Paul Brestel thinks, "How do you do that?"

Laura Foster and Greta Mann contemplate the day's activities.

NHS Spells SUCCESS!

President Ricky Clark and secretary Shannon Hiner discuss the program for the meeting.

Throughout his or her high school years, everyone strived to achieve the goal of success, either by making good grades, standing out as a predominant leader, or having exemplary character. These were the characteristics that the members of the National Honor Society possessed.

The NHS members also performed many duties throughout the year. First, they helped students during the school year by tutoring and giving help to those who requested it. Next, they undertook many tasks in the community such as adopting a grandfather at the District Home. When graduation came, the members provided the ceremony with auxiliary ushers. Moreover, they participated in many other academic and cultural events within the state.

The NHS also participated in fund-raising activities. They sold spirit hats at football and basketball games. The members made chocolate-covered pretzels for Valentine's Day. The money that was made from these fund-raisers were given out in scholarships to two outstanding seniors at the end of the year.

As you can see, the National Honor Society is no different than any other club except that they induct people who excel at what they do and that could be anyone who tries.

On a Monday, Ricky Clark moves a television as Mrs. Stoner reads where to take it.

ACTIONS

Speak Louder Than Words

Because teaching required an enormous amount of time and energy, the SAE club was dedicated to helping teachers. Under the direction of Mr. Hairfield, the Student Action in Education club provided teachers and staff with assistance.

Each day of the week, two members were assigned to help Mrs. Stoner with the audio-visual equipment. On Mondays, Joe Davis and Ricky Clark were appointed to assist with the duties. Michelle Smith and Kristen Bradley worked on Tuesdays, while Mark Houff and Jeff McKinney assisted on Wednesday. Every Thursday, Tammy Thompson and Donna Carter were scheduled to help. On Fridays, Tabitha Johnson and Scarlett Kiser set up the equipment. Megan Heaslip served as a substitute, helping Mrs. Stoner when any other member could not come. In addition, the SAE ushered at parent-teacher conferences.

The club gave treats to teachers to show its appreciation and respect. After going through the process of preparing and administering an exam, teachers were pleasantly surprised to receive a treat from the SAE club. Holiday occasions, such as Valentine's Day, brought even more thoughtful presents. Finally, to honor Wilson's retired mentors, the club gave Christmas cards.

Taking a TV from the library to a homeroom as part of her SAE duty is Scarlett Kiser.

Joe Davis steers a television down the hall en route to a homeroom.

Pushing a TV through the library on a Friday morning is Tabitha Johnson.

Mrs. Stoner helps guide audio-visual equipment as Donna Carter assists.

Sometimes the Sergeants feel like nuts, sometimes they don't; here they sing the immortal jingle.

THE BEAT GOES ON

All of a sudden you heard them. You were just walking down the hall, and you heard them singing. But you didn't have to stand out in the halls to hear the Singing Sergeants; you could have gone to one of their concerts.

One of their first concerts was during Christmas time. They also performed at neighborhood churches as well as Wilson. Next, the Sergeants held their spring concert, "The Rhythm of the Night". There the seniors and some juniors sang solos and duets. As if that wasn't enough, there was rapping, some fast tunes played on the piano, and acting. At the end of the show the whole gang got together and ended with one big finale.

By all means, that was not the end of the Singing Sergeants for the year. They had a few more concerts, including one at the General Wayne Motor Lodge. Therefore, hanging out in the halls was not the best place to hear the Singing Sergeants, but out in the audience, where you got the whole performance.

The alto section sings a love song to entertain the audience.

The 1985-86 Singing Sergeants are: Row 1: Kelly Whitmore, Donna Sullivan, Tabitha Chandler, Lena Henderson, Walter Henderson, J.W. Seay, Kenny McGee, director Mr. Tate, Susie Wright, Sherri Elmore, Missy Gering, and Wendy Wiseman. Row 2: Dawn Dofflemeyer, Stacey Todd, Denise Meek, Tracey Templeman, Ronald Porter, Scott Linton, Barry Meek, Matt Garber, Gordon Henderson, Donna Campbell, Kim Whitlock, and Annette Ross. Row 3: Darlene

Kathy Hughes plays the guitar and sings a song with Marilyn Payne accompanying her on the mandolin.

"Tuxedo Junction" provides the rhythm for the altos as they dance in a routine.

One place to hear the Sergeants is at home basketball games as they sing our national anthem.

Members from the different sections join together to sing the second song.

SPORTS

For many of us, the 5 hours spent in the classroom is only part of the high school day. The other part involves sports.

Coaches and teammates became our good friends and Waynesboro and Lee our worst enemies. Competition on the field was fierce sometimes, especially when the person you were facing was wearing purple and gold.

Even if it wasn't the Giants on the other team, there was still some strong rivalry involved. In volleyball, Riverheads provoked the Hornets; in basketball (girls' and boys') Stuarts Draft was important; the softball team gets fired up when facing Wm. Monroe or Madison.

There were times when everything "clicked", as was the case of the Cross Country team. And times when it seemed Fate was cheering for the other side, like the football season. Maybe one day was special, like when the basketball team defeated Fort for the first time in 13 years. And of course, there is at least one game best forgotten.

Cheerleaders like Megan Heaslip are always enthusiastic, even on hot game nights.

Robert H. White, Jr. won the 1966
 National Outdoor Track and Field
 100m Sprint. He was the first American to win the title.

The football team only respected one thing before a game, the national anthem.

FOOTBALL IS A CONTACT SPORT

There was a lot of contact on the new field this year. Although Wilson only won 1 game, they made several teams work extra hard for their win. One thing the Hornets didn't lack was meanness. With the exception of Lee High and William Monroe all games were low scoring; and in all cases, the ball was moved in both directions constantly. Mike Snead, leading rusher, ran for 753 yards and QB Mark Coffey carried the ball for 405 yards. Alex Fisher and Mark Brown also helped out with 697 yards and 425 yards respectfully. Joey Pugh had 4 pass interceptions in our favor, and Howard Miller contributed 99 solo tackles and 1 interception to help from the defensive squad.

Snead, Coffey and Pugh were honored 2nd Team All-District and Miller collected 1st Team All-District, 1st Team All City-County and Honorable mention All-Regional. Alex Fisher and Joey Pugh received MVP awards.

TRUE TO THE END

Although the wins and losses columns didn't come out appealing, the J.V. boys' football team was true to the end with determination and skill. Because players were generally small the game was a lot tougher. Therefore it's no wonder Coach Duke concentrated his efforts on teaching good strategy and sportmanship and not emphasizing winning scores or stats.

CLASS ACT

The girls' varsity basketball team showed not only poise and determination, but also a sincere comradery, both on and off the floor. Friendship was one of the main ingredients which led the team toward success.

The girls stuck together through tough times and fun times, exchanging bruises in the game and gifts in the locker room.

The high point of the year was beating the Fort Defiance Indians whose record stood at eight wins and no losses. The most heartwrenching moment of the season came when the Lady Hornets lost by one point to the Buffalo Gap Bison in a critical district play-off game, ending their prosperous season.

HARLOW'S HOPEFULS

The 1985-1986 girls junior varsity basketball team had their work cut out for them this year. Lack of experience was their biggest downfall. In spite of a difficult series of losses, they never lost hope or gave up. Their courteous conduct during and after the games should be copied by all teams: this was true sportsmanship! You could look at the team during games and practices and tell they were having fun. Mrs. Harlow was equally impressive because she never gave up on her girls and led the team to a memorable season.

After 18 hard fought games they were able to come up with only 4 wins and a couple close-to-winning games. Top scorer on the team was Loraine Blackburn with 164 points for the season (9.1 average points per game). Karen Tutwiler was second leading scorer and was the single game high scorer with 17 points.

DETERMINATION AND WILL POWER

Wilson Memorial High School's boy's eighth grade basketball team was small in regards to height, in fact they were the smallest team in the district, yet they had the biggest hearts and the most determination. These young men played every game as if it were their last game. With a positive attitude the team matured together and won the games together, which eventually paid off. At the end of the season the team found themselves in the district championship, along with our neighboring school, Stuarts Draft. The Cougars were much bigger both in the paint and around the perimeter. Our eighth graders put up a good fight and although they came up short, they should be proud of accomplishments throughout the year.

This years eighth grade girls' basketball team was the first time many of the girls had any sort of organized basketball. The goal of the girl's was to develop skills and if the wins would come in time then that would be great, but until then, they would work hard, and grow both emotionally and physically together as a team.

THE TOUGH ROOKIES

This basketball season could be described as tough yet successful. The team had four seniors who had very little playing time as juniors, and nine juniors with no experience on the varsity level. Almost every team in the Skyline district had more experience and height than Wilson, but Wilson's speed and agility made up the difference. When we played against giants from Madison and William Monroe, we fell short of a victory by a few points. Then Wilson played against the scrappy Bulldogs and Gladiators and came out with a check in the win column. Though the team finished with a record less than .500, the players gained in experience and skill. The most valuable player of the team was a junior Scott Mawyer who led the team in scoring and rebounding.

Frankie Cahoon, Bill Nash, Joe Davis, Jerry McDaniel, Jeff McKinney-Mgr.

Outjumping a Madison player to make 2 more points is Keith Eagle.

Shown shooting in excellent form is Ricky Clark, who was a guard for the team.

The coaches this year were: Coach Gary Schuler; and David Wade, Assistant Coach.

SHOOTING STARS

This year was coach David Wade's first year with the boys' J.V. basketball team. Coach Wade didn't emphasize statistics but rather good ball playing skills and coordinated team effort.

The J.V. squad did not have a most valuable player, but the whole team played great ball. This was shown by the win record of our J.V. boys' basketball team.

THE SADDLE-SHOE CREW

Only twenty-four girls out of approximately fifty who tried out in the spring of last year were chosen as cheerleaders for the three squads. This was only the beginning! They practiced in the sleepy morning hours all summer, with lots of help from Jane Cash (a former W.M.H.S. cheerleader). They spent four days at NCA camp, held at James Madison University (fond memories of blisters and sore muscles!). It was no wonder that these girls were ready when their respective seasons began. They promoted school spirit by making posters and bulletin boards, selling ribbons and buttons, giving special surprises and treats to the players, sponsoring "spirit weeks," leading super pep rallies, and of course cheering at all the games. Through their hard work, dedication and spirit, we had some really exciting times!

Miss Debbie Sondrol, as sponsor for her fourth year at Wilson, was in charge of organizing all three squads this year and did a superb job of leadership, even when it required juggling her own schedule so that she could attend all of the games (she even went to camp!). Not only was she a great coach ... she was a special friend to all the girls.

THE NEW ADDITION

A new addition to Wilson's basketball games was the dance drill team, the Stingerettes. The creator, coordinator, and captain, Kristen Bradley explained, "The idea came from the BYU 'Congerettes'. I thought, why not do the same thing at Wilson?"

A team of twelve members was chosen in the fall; the girls practiced long hours every morning and afternoon in preparation of the season. Finally, the first performance night came — halftime at the intense Waynesboro game.

WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS

The Cross Country team started out at a slow pace with both the boys' and girls' teams losing to Lee. However, the boys' team turned around and redeemed themselves as they annihilated Lee and fifteen other high schools, placing third overall at an invitational meet held at Eastern Mennonite College. Showing promise as they earned an eleventh place position at the same meet, the girls' team ran a strong race.

The boys' Cross Country team had eight members including one senior, Matt Garber. The other runners making up the young and talented team were James Lavery, Ricky Clark, Jeremy Sipe, Mark Hedrick, Chrs Sipe, Paul Brestel, and Matt Brestel.

The girls' Cross Country team was also young with Tracy Templeman and Kamie Kuester as the only two seniors on the team. Rounding out the team were Leigh Anne Cook, Becky Robertson, and Alicia Ozyjowski. Lucy Ramsey served as the team manager.

Both the boys' and girls' teams made impressive showings at the regionals held at Piedmont Community College. Tracy Templeman led the girls to an overall sixth place position by coming in second in a field of over seventy runners. In the boys' race, Jeremy Sipe demolished the state record by almost twenty seconds with an awesome time of 16:25 minutes! Chris Sipe, Mark Hedrick, and Paul Brestel also helped earn a second overall position by placing in the top fifteen.

The crowning glory came at the state meet. Following their early season prediction, the boys' team captured first place at the meet by defeating Stonewall Jackson, the team that edged out Wilson in the regionals! Runners Jeremy Sipe, Chris Sipe, Mark Hedrick, Paul Brestel and Matt Garber earned the victory by placing second, fifth, eleventh, nineteenth, and forty-first, respectively. The girls' team rounded out their season by placing eleventh place in the meet.

By the end of the season, two runners had proved themselves to be outstanding. Jeremy Sipe, the most valuable player for the boys, set a new home course record with a time of 16:56 minutes. Likewise the girls' team's most valuable player, Tracy Templeman, ran a time of 21:14 minutes to establish a new home course record for the girls.

Running at a steady pace on the 5000 meter course is Alicia Ozyjowski.

Working his way through the pack is Jeremy Sipe, with Chris Sipe cruising down behind him.

A STATELY AFFAIR

While both boys' and girls' track teams had a less than perfect season due to defeats, they demonstrated that Our Gang has talent by sending several members all the way to state competition. Competition for single A schools of Virginia was held far away in Wytheville.

Indeed, the competitors who will for the most part be eligible to compete again next year, have had at least one season of concentrated practice in their individual events. Coach Geiman and coach Russell helped the boys team make an impressive showing for its overall win record. The girls did not win as many meets as the boys, but coach Whit guided the team through a tough season against many stronger girls' teams.

OFF TO A HEAD START

April is the cruelest month of all! Between sunburns on days of 90 degree temperatures and frostbite on days of 32 degrees, the boys' and girls' J.V. track teams faithfully practiced no matter what the crazy spring weather threw at them.

The younger track runners gained valuable experience and a sense of competition by participating in track and field events against other local high school teams. Coach Russell was the mentor of the boys' team which consisted of approximately twenty-five eager and hard-driving members. Coach Crawley and coach Fitzgerald led the smaller but just as dedicated girls' team.

As the season progressed, times improved and distances and heights increased. Running track was a very strenuous and demanding activity. But throughout the season, hard work paid off in the form of victory against other district high schools' teams.

Family Fun

Coaching without her assistant coach for the better part of the season, Iris Taylor couldn't have been better. The team's record was 9 and 9 proving that they were working well together. Their hearts were in it partially because there were veterans of several seasons as teammates. Some had played four years together. They were also determined to play well for the sake of Harold Craig who was hospitalized for a serious heart attack.

All in all the team prove to be a district threat as they finished third.

HARD FOUGHT

Although this year's varsity baseball team finished with a record of 9-11-1, the team actually had a very good year. Coach Bowers, with the help of assistant Coach Bill Duke, led the team to 7-5 in the district, a third place finish, and a berth in the Region B tournament.

There were 4 seniors, 3 juniors, 5 sophomores, and 2 freshman on the team.

Keith Eagle gets ready to hit a smashing backhand.

TENNIS . . . EVERYONE!

The game of tennis takes many hours of rigorous practice and lots of devotion. The players needed "concentrated concentration", according to the girls' coach, Stuart Moffett. Accordingly, there were some impressive wins.

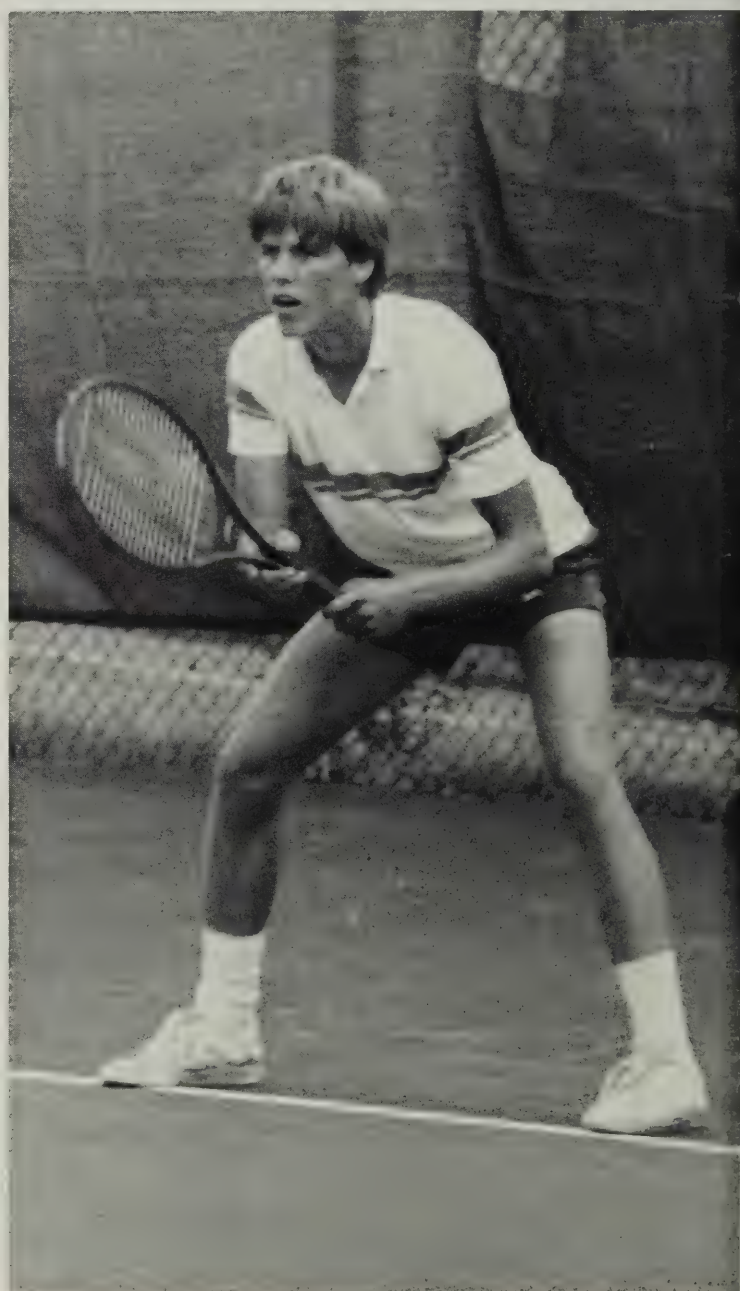

For the girls', the team included Jennifer Baldwin, Leigh Anne Cook, Laura Foster, Greta Mann, Angie Warren, and Shannon Hiner. They were seeded first through sixth, respectively. Although Shannon Miller was not seeded, she did play in exhibition matches.

The guys' team included two seniors, Keith Eagle and Skip Nash, who were seeded first and sixth, respectively. The other players included Chris Dalton, John Wangler, Ricky Clark, Barry Meek, Tom Maloney, and David Wills, who also competed in the matches.

At the end of the season, the girls' team tied for first in the district with Buffalo Gap. In the district tournament, Leigh Anne Cook and Jennifer Baldwin made it to the semi-finals in singles, while Leigh Anne Cook and Laura Foster made it to the finals playing doubles. The boys' team finished third in the district. Chris Dalton advanced to the semi-finals in singles and the doubles team of Ricky Clark and John Wangler also advanced to the semi-finals.

Concentration on receiving a serve, Ricky Clark prepares to hit a winner.

Leigh Anne Cook hits a fore-hand shot at the district play-off at the Staunton Racquet Club.

The 1986 boys' tennis team is: Row 1: coach Greg Troxell, Keith Eagle, Skip Nash, and Ricky Clark. Row 2: David Wills, Barry Meek, and John Wangler.

PAR FOR THE COURSE

Rebuilding a team with returning lettermen Joe Davis, Doug Hopeman, Bill Nash, Darrell Bowman, and Scott Ramsey, the golf team played its second season against the more experienced teams from Luray, William Monroe, and State champions Stuarts Draft. Completing the roster were: Chris Beverage, Keith Simmons, John Scheib, Randall Hinebaugh, and Steve Smith.

Practice for the team consisted of playing up to twelve holes at Ingleside Golf Club under the teaching of coach Waleski and coach Schuler.

Making an easy tap-in is Randall Hinebaugh.

Beginning his downswing, John Scheib drives a tee shot.

Barbara Dollins, a helper with Special Olympics, readies a contestant for the next heat.

The fun of competing in a short-distance race is shown by this participant.

WINNERS, EVERY ONE

The new Wilson track was the site of the Special Olympic games held annually in the early spring. Approximately 200 participants competed in events similar to a regular track meet with the exception of the 3200 meter run. Competitors aged five to over twenty-five also ran races including the 10 meter wheelchair race, 25 meter walk, 50 meter dash, and softball toss.

Members of the varsity track team helped organize the day long event. The students served as starters, timed the events, took down results, and were "huggers" at the finish of each race. To each person that placed in an event, a ribbon was awarded.

Even though Special Olympics competitors had handicaps, every race showed the intense determination of the participants. It was quite an accomplishment to win a ribbon; the winners achieved impressive results in the day's events.

One of the many runners heads down the track in a sprint.

Checking the time of the last race are a competitor and his assistant.

ADS. & INDEX

DON'T STOP NOW! You've seen your face and all of your friends faces forty-eleven times and you've "relived" the 1985-86 school year, but don't put this book down yet. On the next 16 pages, the people who kept the price you paid for these memories down are listed in the form of ads. Also, the index is back here so you can make sure you've seen every shot of that cute someone.

(Note: The ad pages have plenty of white space for signing!)

IN CLOSING

This is the end of the book and also the “end” of the year. There was so much to experience, and now, so much to remember. We hope this book serves as a reminder of all the good times. After all, it is your memories we have tried to compile in this annual. Take time to reread the copy, laugh at the pictures and remember the '85-'86 school year.

And, good luck in your future adventures.

The Annual Staff

Brian Cash, tired and disappointed, listens intently to Coach Waleski's post-game talk. Wilson was defeated by Lee High, 27-7.

"And the winners are . . ." Matt Garber and Cindy McDorman announce the Class Flirts.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Well gang, it's over. Gosh. That seem so final. I'd like you to know I have tears streaming down my face and I can barely see to write this. I'm going to miss you all. I'm sure whatever you do in life will be a success. This book stands as proof of that.

Kristina Bryant — Though you weren't here but for a few months, you did your part. Thanks for the pizzas!

Amy Hemp — Good Luck next year, wherever you are. Remember the good times.

Missy Hewitt — I really envy your taste in clothes. Although that doesn't relate directly to the annual, your "style" will always stand out in my mind.

Tammy Heslep — "Quiet but diligent." You did a fine job and I really appreciate it.

Laura Foster — You proved you are more than just "Alan's sister." You are an outstanding individual and I wish you the best.

David Ledbetter — Thanks for just about everything. You really came through when we needed you for pictures, processing and just running errands. (Do we owe you gas money?) Best of luck at VMI.

Ricky Clark — Yes, I know how to comb my hair! You did an excellent job with copy.

Bill Nash — "Stud" (I told you I would put that in.) Thanks for your "innovative" ideas and for providing the entertainment.

Skip Nash — See, it wasn't so rough! I'm glad you were on the staff. Enjoy your future.

Tressa Fitzgerald — You took on the "senior class" and there are a lot of people who are relieved that you did, including me. I never would have gotten done had you not been so "pushy." Go after your dreams, I know how much they mean to you.

Megan Heaslip — "Mee-gan." Thanks for the theme. Did you ever imagine that a single thought and a little work could produce this? You've got what it takes, so take it far.

Kevin Christie — The stories I could tell about you . . . but all I want to say is thank you for being a friend. Behave in the Marines.

Sandy Runyon — She's all yours. Really put your talent to work and "sting" the Hornets' Nest.

Mike Baber — Thanks for listening to me gripe. Oh, and you did a good job with pictures also, when you got around to it.

Mr. Runkle and the Communications Department — Sometimes you were so sarcastic . . . But you did help and I do appreciate it.

Mr. Landis — Please ignore any derogatory remarks towards you and your policies. In four years, no one will know the difference. Keep trying.

Everyone — Thank you for being a part of my life. I will always cherish my memories of Wilson and I hope you will also.

Scott S. Ramsey — No, I didn't forget you. I just saved the best for last. You are "the best." Without you, there wouldn't be any copy in this book. I really wish you were going to JMU with me, but W&M will be excellent for you. Don't settle for anything less than the "top" — that's where you belong.

Mrs. Sims — You don't know how much I will miss you or how much you have done for me. I truly enjoyed the three years I've spent under your "guidance." You've been an excellent friend and I can only wish you the best. Remember "The Outsiders?" Well, "stay gold."
